

DRIVING OUT THE BEETLES

WORK OF EXTERMINATING THE ELM TREE PESTS IN THIS CITY.

One Thousand Trees Treated With the Kerosene Emulsion Outside of the Public Parks—Surrounding Towns Are Doing Nothing.

The park department has been working nearly a week to drive the beetle pest from New Haven's beautiful elms. Superintendent of Parks Kelly with a gang of men went to work last Thursday afternoon, the board of public works having voted an appropriation of $1,500 for that purpose.

Last week was devoted to the elms in the public parks. This week Mr. Kelly and his men have been at work on the elms in the streets included in the section bounded by Elm, Temple, Bradley and State streets. A thousand trees in that square have been scraped and treated with the kerosene emulsion. The work will continue in that section of the city the remainder of the week, and the appropriation, it is thought, will not be exhausted before two weeks.

Superintendent Kelly, when he returned from his day's work last evening, said it was doubtful if the work in this city would effectually exterminate the pest, which thrives everywhere just now.

Some measures have been taken in Hartford and Bridgeport to kill the beetles, but in the smaller towns little has been done in that direction. For this reason Superintendent Kelly thinks that the beetles in Ansonia, Milford, Woodbridge, North Haven, Derby and other towns will readily find their way to this city and renew the attack on our elms. He thinks that the proper way to exterminate the pest is for the state to take the matter in hand.

A large amount of work has been done by property owners in killing the beetles. The demand for the kerosene emulsion at the supply house of the board of public works shows this to be a fact. Many trees have been scraped and treated by citizens. In the western part of the city many trees have been cared for in this way. In West Haven, too, property holders have had trees in front of their houses treated according to Prof. Jenkins' formula.

The co-operation on the part of the people is greatly appreciated by the park department. There is plenty of the emulsion at the supply house, and anyone who wants it can get it for the asking.

FAIR HAVEN.

The selectmen are to improve East Grand avenue, Quinnipiac, Center, Prospect, Pleasant and Grove streets by treating them to crushed stone. The road roller has been brought over and the work will begin immediately. The town will have ten teams at work, including six horses recently purchased.

Some of the oystermen claim to have seen oyster sets on the beds down the harbor. One boatman claims that while his boat was at anchor the spat set on the iron work at the bow during the night.

The barge L. Sanderson, that was to have loaded with cement at one of the North river wharves for W. A. Warner & Brother, accepted another charter, but will come on the succeeding trip.

Mark Butterfield of Bridgeport is in town for a few days. His wife has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Mansfield of the annex.

The family of A. De Matty, the shoe dealer, are at their farm in Palmetto, East Haven. Mr. De Matty will run out there during the summer for short time.

Captain and Mrs. Robinson have started for a drive to Plainville, Conn., where they will attend the Methodist camp meetings, which commence Monday, July 23. There will be a large delegation from the East Pearl street church, but most of them will leave here next Monday.

Carrie Gahagan of Saltonstall avenue has arrived home from Springfield, Mass., where she has been visiting friends for a month past.

Henry A. Treat of Bridgeport is visiting Frank D. Cargill of Quinnipiac street.

The oystermen are busily engaged in shelling and the work is nearly half done. The sloops Hattie Wallace, Stanley Howard, General Harris and the schooner Susan Jane are carrying shells—also several barges.

Mrs. Charles Booth of Wallingford is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Henry I. Barnes of Exchange street.

The business meeting and social of the Y. P. S. C. E. of the Grand avenue Baptist church are to take place the second Monday evening in August instead of Sunday, as mentioned previously.

COLLINS GETS TWENTY YEARS.

The Negro Who Killed Student Ohl Sentenced.

Trenton, July 24.—John S. Collins, the negro, who shot and killed Frederick Ohl, the Princeton student, and who was last week found guilty of murder in the second degree, was sentenced this morning to twenty years' imprisonment at hard labor.

The prisoner pleaded non vult to the indictment for atrocious assault upon Garret Cochran, the student who was with Ohl in the fracas, and got ten years more, but the sentences are to run concurrently, and therefore the first one only counts.

In pronouncing sentence the judge said that had the jury's verdict been murder in the first degree the court would have considered it a proper judgment. Collins smiled as he stood up to receive his sentence. His counsel, having saved his life, had nothing further to say.

JAPAN WANTS MORE.

Will Demand Seven Million Five Hundred Thousand Pounds Additional for Giving Up Lulu Tung.

London, July 24.—A dispatch to the Pall Mall Gazette from Shanghai says that the Japanese government will demand an additional £7,500,000 from China to compensate Japan for abandoning the Lulu Tung territory.

Supposed Case of Suicide.

New York, July 24.—Dr. Thomas S. Hagan, assistant physician at Hart's Island, was found dead in bed in his room this morning. His throat was cut and the artery in one of the wrists was severed. It is supposed to be a case of suicide.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Of Miss Whitney, Daughter of ex-Secretary Whitney—Almeric Hugh Paget Has Won the Heart of the Former Secretary's Daughter—Friendship Ripened Into Love—Whitney the Nile—Though a Member of the Famous English Family the Young Man Has Lived in New York for Years.

New York, July 24.—A dispatch from Newport says: The engagement is announced of Miss Pauline Whitney, daughter of ex-Secretary Whitney, to Mr. Almeric H. Paget of St. Paul, Minn., a member of the famous English family of Paget. This has been made known to the friends of the two families. Ex-Secretary Whitney is away, but his personal representative, Colonel G. B. M. Harvey, was seen at his office at No. 22 Liberty street this afternoon and confirmed the report.

"No formal announcement of the engagement has yet been made," Colonel Harvey said, "and the publication is consequently premature, but since it is out I do not think Mr. Whitney would care to have any mystery about it. The report is correct. Miss Whitney and Mr. Paget have been acquainted for several years. Last fall Mr. Paget happened to cross the ocean on the same steamer with Mr. Whitney and his daughter, and subsequently became a member of their party on the trip up the Nile. They became engaged before returning to this country."

Miss Pauline Whitney is the older daughter of William C. Whitney. She is about twenty years old, attractive, accomplished and a great favorite of all who know her. She has not figured prominently in social life because of her mother's death, in February, 1883. Last summer she suffered from a severe attack of diphtheria, from which she might not have recovered but for the assiduous care of her father, who remained with her continuously until she was able to return to America. Her health, however, was not fully regained and it was with this object in view that Mr. Whitney planned the trip up the Nile, upon which they fell in with Mr. Paget, and from which they returned but a few weeks ago.

Almeric Hugh Paget is a younger son of the famous English family whose name he bears. He was born about thirty years ago and came to this country to seek his fortune when only sixteen years old. During the first few years of his life in this country he worked on a ranch in the far west, but as soon as he had acquired sufficient experience to warrant the step he removed to St. Paul and struck out for himself in the real estate business. He had no financial backing worth mentioning in this venture, but he had already absorbed the spirit of the west, and his energy and perseverance soon enabled him to amass an independent fortune. His success attracted attention abroad and he became, and is today, manager for a large English company whose investments are in the west.

In appearance, thought and action Mr. Paget is a thorough going American. Like the great majority of his business associates and personal friends in Minnesota, he made his own way from boyhood out of the great west and naturally thinks there is no country and no section of that country to compare with that which has crowned his efforts with success. Mr. Paget is little known in New York, but is highly esteemed by the few who have met him here, as well as by the many who know him in St. Paul and Chicago, as a straightforward, hard working, mainly fellow, whose self reliance is due wholly to self achievement.

There are few families in England more distinguished or influential than that to which Almeric Hugh Paget belongs, and of which the Marquis of Anglesey is the head. Its founder was knighted by King Henry VIII. and received the title of Lord Paget and the Order of the Garter for his valuable services rendered as secretary of state. In every reign since that time the Paget name has figured prominently in history. In the middle of the last century the Pagets became extinct, as far as male heirs were concerned. But the son of Lady Bayley, who was heiress of all the estates of the house, and a Paget by birth, was permitted by act of parliament to assume the name and arms of his mother's family, and was summoned to the house of lords by favor of the king, as ninth Lord Paget. The son of this ninth Lord Paget received the title of Earl of Uxbridge, and his grandson was promoted to the Marquisate of Anglesey for his splendid services in the Peninsula Campaign and other wars against the First Napoleon. Lord Anglesey commanded the cavalry at the battle of Waterloo and lost his leg in the conflict. He was subsequently on two separate occasions Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, and died leaving a very large family. His first wife was a daughter of Lord Jersey, and his second was the daughter of the first Earl of Cadogan. This lady was the mother of Lord Alfred Paget, and consequently the grandmother of Almeric Hugh Paget.

Lord Alfred Paget, Almeric Paget's father, was a general in the army and chief equerry to the queen. He held a conspicuous position in the court of St. James because of his intimate association with the late prince consort and the high regard in which he was held by the queen. He was the father of fourteen children. The eldest, Colonel Arthur Paget, was a page of honor to Queen Victoria for five years, and subsequently received the commission which he now holds as colonel of the Scots Guards. He is very much liked by the Prince of Wales, and constantly accompanies the latter on his continental trips in the capacity of extra equerry, as which he is known at most of the European courts. His wife is a daughter of the late Mrs. Paron Stevens.

Another of Almeric Paget's brothers is Captain Alfred Paget, of the navy, who distinguished himself in the Egyptian war, while at least two of his sisters have held the position of maid of honor to the queen. Her majesty has stood sponsor to one of the girls, the Prince Consort to another and the Princess of Wales to a third, while the prince himself is godfather of Colonel Arthur Paget's eldest boy.

The present Lord Anglesey, Mr. Almeric Paget's cousin, and like him, grandson of the first marquis, has been thrice married, his present wife, from whom he is separated, being an American lady, the daughter of J. P. King of Sand Hills, Ga.

Another distinguished member of the family is Sir Augustus Paget, so long ambassador at Rome and Vienna, and whose son was attached to the British embassy at Washington, two years ago. Sir Augustus is a great favorite at court. His wife was the Countess von Hohenthal, who, for a short time previous to her marriage, was maid of honor to Empress Frederick of Germany. Sir Augustus is a son of a brother of the first Marquis of Anglesey, and his own son, who, as stated above, was formerly at Washington, inherited some years ago quite a considerable fortune from an American maiden lady, a Miss Bennett of Boston, who was in the habit of spending her winters at Rome and who had taken a fancy to the boy and his parents.

Another most attractive member of the Paget family is the ever beautiful Marchioness of Hastings, now the wife of Sir George Chetwynd, and who has just presented at court her daughter by her second marriage, the difference between the ages of mother and daughter being so slightly apparent as to convey the impression that the Marchioness was the sister rather than the mother of Miss Chetwynd. Indeed, the Marchioness seems to have discovered the same secret of perennial youth as that of the Princess of Wales.

Among the families allied by marriage to that of the Pagets are those of Lord Combermere, the Earl of Winchelsea, the Duke of Argyll, Lord Sidney, Lord Windsor, Lord Bagot, Lord Conyngham, Lord Stratford, Lord Templemore, the Duke of Richmond, and Sir Edward Colebrooke, who is married to a sister of Mr. Almeric Paget. The Colebrookes are an old Kentish family, the founder of which represented Great Britain in Switzerland nearly two centuries ago.

The family estates, comprise sixty thousand acres, the two superb country seats of Blandford and Weymouth, and the titles of Marquis of Anglesey, Earl of Exbridge, and Baron Paget. The family motto is "Per il suo contraltro" (By its Opposite), and the crests are as follows:—The barony, January, 1552; the earldom, May, 1784, and the marquisate, July, 1815, immediately after the battle of Waterloo.

ARREST OF A MINISTER.

He is Held Under Bail on the Charge of Fraud.

Milford, Mass., July 24.—This forenoon Rev. Bryant McEllan, pastor of the Milford Baptist church, was arrested today on complaint of Perley S. Field, a retired coal dealer of this town, for alleged fraud in McEllan's sale to Field of 100 shares of the Penstock Electric Battery at $5 a share, knowing that the market value was much less.

Mr. McEllan was held in $800 bail till Friday morning next. From $30,000 to $25,000 of Penstock stock is said to have been sold here at the above prices, while the value is quoted at the Boston stock exchange at 7.8 and 10 cents per share, the par value being $1. Mr. McEllan's friends believe him innocent of intentional wrong doing.

A DOUBLE TRAGEDY MYSTERY

Explained After Twenty-five Years—How Two Bruisers Were Murdered in New Canaan—A Letter From Oregon Tells the Story.

Canaan, July 24.—To-day a double tragedy of twenty-five years ago was explained by the receipt of a letter at the office of the Litchfield County Leader, newspaper, from Oregon.

On June 13 last Solomon Barton, a Canaan farmer, was excavating for a building on a portion of his land. His workmen one day unearthed two human skeletons, and considerable talk was caused by the discovery. Old settlers recalled indistinctly that many years ago there was some excitement over the mysterious disappearance of two men, and readily connected the discovery with that case.

The case is made clear to-day by the receipt of the above mentioned letter. Fifty twenty-five years ago, while the old Connecticut Western railroad, now the Philadelphia, Reading and New England, was in process of construction, a large gang of workmen was employed in the building of the road and for a considerable period made Canaan their headquarters. In that gang of workmen there were two notorious toughs, known as "Big Mike" Houlihan and Patrick Ryan. "Big Mike" was a giant in stature and was the terror of the whole crowd. One day in a drunken brawl the two terrors cleaned out the gang. A few days later both of them disappeared and no trace of them was ever found. The letter received today was written by Antonio Slatery. He was one of the members of the gang and has since been living in the west. In a western paper he read of the finding of the two skeletons on June 13. The description of the skeletons was such that he was sure that they were the bones of "Big Mike" and Ryan. Accordingly he wrote a letter to the Canaan post office. He said that a few days after the body mentioned above the worst toughs banded together and murdered Houlihan and Ryan and buried them in the field where they were found. Slatery says he was in no way connected with the murder, but he knew of it at the time.

CAMP COFFIN NOTES.

Captain George A. Cornell, state armorer, and a large force of men is at Niantic putting the camp ground in order and pitching the tents for the coming encampment of the National Guard. A force of about thirty men will be employed in the work from now until the troops arrive. Three car loads of camp equipment has arrived at Niantic from the state arsenal.

The members of the hospital corps and the four regiments are to receive the new medical pouches. One of these pouches will be furnished to every man in the corps. It contains antiseptic dressing, ligatures, stimulants and all appurtenances needed for the immediate relief of the injured. The pouches will take the place of the hospital corps knapsacks formerly carried by each corps.

General Peck of the governor's staff, has entered into a contract with Samuel L. Kerhune of 176 West Tenth street, New York city, to cater for the Third regiment during the coming encampment.

Busy Train Dispatchers.

During the absence of Edward R. Miller, the night train dispatcher of the Shore Line road, in this city, the extra work of the office for the twenty-four hours is done by Dispatchers Ernest B. Beers and Frank L. Arnold. Both are efficient railroad men, and handle the work all night. Mr. Miller, who is in poor health, is out of town,

THE INDIAN WAR STARTED.

Settlers Ready to Take the Field in Self-Defence—All the Pastures Guarded—Official Advice Reach Governor Richards.

Pocatello, Idaho, July 24.—The story of the killing of the three whites, and six Indians is spreading alarm at a rapid rate. Innumerable pleasure parties have given up contemplated trips into the mountain country, which abounds in the finest sports of all kinds at this season. The settlers, too, are becoming thoroughly aroused, and if they are not soon protected by government troops they will take the field in protection of their own homes and lives, and they are well qualified by long experience in this country to do even more effective fighting than the regulars.

The Indians realize that the cowboys are more dangerous than the troops. The reds know they can surrender to the soldiers and they will be in no further danger, but when the frontier volunteers go out to fight Indians they fight as the Indians do themselves. They shoot to kill, and kill all in sight.

The news that the foraging Bannocks are receiving supplies of government rations forwarded by those remaining at the reservation and that several hundred Shoshone bucks from the Wind River reservation have started to join the Bannocks are not the best indications that the ill feeling engendered by the killing of the Indian hunters will end without further trouble. In addition to these events the sensible Indians who have remained on the reservation to put up their hay and who advised against the hunt say that the Indians want to fight.

Cheyenne, Wyo., July 24.—The first advice of an authentic nature from the scene of the Indian troubles in the Jackson Hole region reached Governor Richards yesterday in the shape of telegrams sent by courier from Marysville, Wyo., to Market Lake, Wyo., from Adjutant General Stitzer of the governor's staff, who was sent into the region to investigate the troubles between the Indians and the whites.

One message sent Sunday from Marysville is as follows:

"Scouts who have just come in from the mountains report Indians in force at the junction of Granite Creek and Fall River. All passes available to horses are guarded by Indians. Captain Smith, a prospector, has just come in wounded in the right breast by Indians. Other prospectors are being driven in from the mountains. Picket are guarding the various mountain passes to-night. Forces are equipped ready for a march, and everybody is armed."

A second message sent Monday by Stitzer from the Teton Basin, near the Idaho-Wyoming line, says: "Arrived here on return trip. Settlers in the basin uneasy. It is reported here that many Indians from Fort Hall are leaving to join those in the mountains. Indians from other reservations are reported joining them. Letters and couriers have been sent out by the Jackson Hole settlers asking for aid, and with those who have responded they will go into the mountains to meet the Indians to-day. Settlers have given up all hopes of saving crops, and are preparing to take all women and children out of the region."

Governor Richards states that no movement of state troops into the Jackson Hole country will be ordered until further information is received. He sent word yesterday to General Stitzer to report as fully as possible on the situation.

Fred White, the courier, reported that the Indians had been joined by a large number of Utes and Lemhi Indians, and that they had every pass into the Hole guarded. Scouts from the stockades of the settlers say that the Indians are massing in large numbers, and will no doubt fight. The settlers have brought their women and children to Wilfred, Idaho, and intend to act on the aggressive in cleaning out the Indians in that part of the country.

Many Persons

Cannot touch food prepared with lard, and yet all such people can eat freely of food shortened with, or cooked (even fried) in COTTOLENE. For dyspepsia, and those with delicate digestive powers, Cottolelene is invaluable. Having all the good features of lard, with none of its unhealthfulness, its wonderful success is easily explained. The genuine always has trade mark—steer's head in cotton-plant wreath—on every pal.
